TravelManagers appoints National Recruitment Manager

Wednesday, 6 August 2008

TravelManagers is pleased to announce the appointment of Aaron Stinson as TravelManagers' first national recruitment manager. Mr. Stinson comes to TravelManagers with a strong human resources background, specialising in internal recruitment. Throughout his career he has been involved in the set up, implementation and refinement of recruitment strategies designed to attract high calibre talent in tight, competitive markets.

Commencing with immediate effect Mr. Stinson's primary task is to maintain the current levels of recruitment and to ensure the high professional standard of the current experienced personal travel managers is preserved. His appointment follows a successful first half to 2008 under the ownership and management of House of Travel.

Commenting on his appointment, Mr. Stinson says he sees the role as an important one, "I am thrilled to be joining TravelManagers at what is an exciting time in the company's development. Having a passion for recruitment and combining this with my prior experience in communications is fantastic."

Mr. Stinson sees one of the most positive aspects of his new role is being able to offer people the opportunity to maximise their income and achieve their personal and professional goals.

"The TravelManagers role really works well in rewarding people with solid industry knowledge, commitment and customer focus, at a time when increasing fuel costs and rising inflation means that a travel agents real income is decreasing. I look forward to taking on this challenging new role and being able to give advice and guidance to people who may be at a crossroad in their careers and want to explore the enormous opportunity that the TravelManagers' business model offers them."

House of Travel's executive general manager retail, Mandy Scotney believes this new dedicated role is a significant and important development within TravelManagers.

"It reflects our ongoing dedication to growing this rapidly emerging segment of the travel distribution business. We want to ensure we not only recruit skilled travel experts who are capable of providing a service to our customers that is above and beyond their expectation but also guarantees our candidates have a positive experience throughout this process."

Ms Scotney says their network coverage throughout Australia is rapidly expanding which prompted the need for the new position.

"It's a real coup to have Aaron as part of the TravelManagers' family and am confident that with his expertise in quality recruitment outcomes he will make a valuable contribution to the company."
