TravelManagers Appoint Queensland Business Partnership Manager

Wednesday, 1 April 2009

TravelManagers have secured another highly regarded industry professional as their Queensland business partnership manager with the appointment of Sarah Weaver.

Ms. Weaver has worked in the industry for almost a decade with significant experience in corporate travel and as a regional sales manager with Rydges. Most recently she was the state manager for TMS Recruitment in Queensland.

TravelManagers' executive general manager, Mandy Scotney says her industry experience and contacts are a huge asset for TravelManagers.

"She is very well networked and has a great understanding of our business model, which means she will hit the ground running. She thinks strategically and is well versed in HR, marketing, sales and planning. It's hard to believe we have found someone with all of those skills plus industry experience."

Ms. Weaver began her role on Monday and will focus on recruiting more personal travel managers and assisting personal travel managers in the Queensland region with further developing their business including supplier relationships.

"It's very much about assisting us to grow the TravelManagers business in Queensland, an area we believe has huge potential."

Ms. Weaver was excited about being appointed to the role and believed her recruitment skills would be of particular benefit.

"I'm absolutely thrilled to be joining TravelManagers, they have an outstanding reputation in the industry so it is exciting to be part of the team. It is always incredibly satisfying when you can draw on your past experience and skills for the benefit of a new role."

Originally from Bristol, United Kingdom she now feels at home in Australia.

"You couldn't get two more different parts of the world when you think about Bristol and Brisbane but this does feel like home. Travel is such a fantastic industry to work in, it's so much more exciting than many other sectors, and now I have this wonderful new challenge at TravelManagers, I couldn't be happier."

TravelManagers appointed Jodie Lemon as their first business partnership manager in early February. She covers Victoria and Tasmania and is based in Melbourne. The company is actively looking for a further business partnership manager for the New South Wales and will follow up on this with a business partnership manager for Western Australia later in the year.

Ms. Scotney says Ms. Weaver's first week would be spent in Sydney at head office in an induction course and then she would return home with a priority of meeting the personal travel managers in Queensland.
